SUMMARY ANALYSIS

REMOTE VIEWING (RV) SESSION XIV

1. (S) This report provides documentation of a remote viewing session conducted for the purpose of orienting a remote viewer to the protocol which will be used in the remote viewing training program at Stanford Research Institute (SRI), Menlo Park, California.

2. (S) The remote viewer was frustrated during this session. The ambient room noise was exceedingly bad during this session. This noise factor seemed to distract the remote viewer significantly. He was unable to concentrate on the task at hand and after trying for fifteen minutes, called off the session.

3. (S) The protocol used for this session and which will be used in later training is detailed in the document, Standard Remote-Viewing Protocol (Local Targets) by Harold E. Puthoff and Russell Targ, November 1978.

4. (S) Following is a transcript of the viewer's impressions during the remote viewing session. At TAB A are drawings made by the viewer reference his impressions of the target site. At TAB B are photographs of the target site. At TAB C is a post-session interview.

POST-SESSION INTERVIEW

1. (S) Post-session interviews are conducted after the completion of a session (usually the following day) to provide the selected remote viewer with the opportunity to express himself concerning his viewing experience.

2. (S) #10.5 was very depressed after calling off the session. He had been looking forward to being very successful and having a rewarding experience. #10.5 had one target image which showed possible target correlation but this was of little comfort to him. Project personnel are not discouraged by this session as it served as a valuable learning tool for #10.5. #10.5 remains enthusiastic about remote viewing and is eager to conduct another session. He also harbors an acute need to have a rewarding remote viewing experience. #10.5 is therefore, seeking a high degree of target correlation.

3. (S) The relationship between #10.5 and #7.5 remains stable. #7.5 was very empathetic towards the feelings of #10.5. #7.5 and #10.5 have a mutually supportive relationship which will serve to overcome present problems.
